To the Interest of the Public

One great reason why the automobile has become so popular and owned by almost everybody, why almost every home has a piano and so many more necessary things, is because a small payment may be paid, and the balance paid in small monthly payments.

What about the farm and home? It wants repairing, and painting, and new furniture, and other things. Can't afford to do it because you have not the ready cash. But a small payment will repair and repaint the home and farm buildings; the cream cheque or egg money each month will pay the balance.

Get your property repaired and repainted and feel prosperous. Save the fuel bill by putting up the windows, nailing the siding to where it was intended to be, and protected by one or two coats of good paint.

Come and see me or Phone 139 and make arrangements about getting your property painted on the easy payment plan.

I have 150 choice samples of wall paper to select from.

Taxation and Obligations

Instant demands continue to be made in many quarters upon the Dominion Government to follow certain financial and economic policies which may be summarized under the following headings:

1. Reduce the Income Tax.
2. Reduce the tariff.
3. Reduce railway freight rates.
4. Reduce ocean freight rates.
5. Build up all national expenditures.
6. Lower the cost of postage.
7. Commerce paying off the national debt.

Equally insistent demands are made upon the Government at Ottawa to:

1. Provide more employment.
2. Develop natural resources.
3. Encourage immigration to promote such development.
4. Construct great public works.
5. Build the Hudson Bay Railway and various branch lines.
6. Develop the St. Lawrence canal and power schemes.
7. Increase the tariff to encourage home industries and increase employment.

Assumed as one set of demands is, in many respects, destructive of the other set. It is at once apparent that the Finance Minister has a real problem on his hands in endeavoring to steer a straight course for the ship of state. He cannot please all and it would be worse than useless to make the attempt.

At the same time it must be recognized, and it is generally recognized, that Canada cannot have a future without making a slight shift in its balance on the country, depressing industry, creating unemployment, and retarding development. With the exception of the demand for the reduction of the tariff, in regard to which there is a sharp difference of opinion, people as a whole are welcome and support all the demands enumerated in the first list mentioned above.

But how is taxation to be reduced in any effective degree and at the same time substantial payments made on account of the national debt? How are freight rates to be lowered and at the same time the deficit on the National Railways wiped out? How can national expenditures be substantially decreased and at the same time policies introduced for the development of natural resources, the construction of dams and other public works, and work created so as to do away with unemployment?

When urging reductions in taxation it must always be borne in mind that to meet interest charges on our war debt Canada requires to raise a total sum of $1,000,000,000.00 which is equivalent to $100,000,000.00 per year. In addition, other nations are ready to contribute to pay pensions and otherwise provide for disabled soldiers. Costs of government, like the cost of everything else, is greater today than was the case two years ago.

Nevertheless, the picture is not as dark as it may at first glance appear. While Canada's imports have fallen in the last year, her exports have increased in value. In addition, other nations are ready to contribute to pay pensions and otherwise provide for disabled soldiers. Costs of government, like the cost of everything else, is greater today than was the case two years ago.

Virtually Canada's imports have fallen in the last year, while her subsequent marked decline in Canada's revenues, the export trade of the Dominion is steadily and even rapidly rising, which means that we are buying more at home and selling more abroad. In other words, Canada is becoming a more self-reliant and self-supporting country, and this makes for national strength and future wealth and prosperity.

Unquestionably there are still many ways in which national expenditures can be reduced through the consolidation of government services, with consequent elimination of overlapping and duplication of services and much waste.

The Civil Service at Ottawa is admittedly over-manned. In taking this view, however, it must be remembered that the civil service is the book of the Canadian Administration in Washington.

The main lesson for the people of Canada to learn, however, is that for the time being they must forego those additional public works and services which can only be provided through large public expenditures. True, such expenditures are necessary in the whole field of national defense, but they will be only temporary, while the sum of debt contracted would only defer the day of debt reduction, but would increase the present high weight of that debt. Money should only be expended on revenue-producing services which will carry their own interest charges and add something to the general revenue of the country.

There is no room for economy in war work, but there is still greater need for honest work on the part of each individual citizen, productive work, work that will result in still further increasing the export trade of the Dominion and provide increasing traffic for our railways. Instead of holding out for the last minute in price and wages, Canadian manufacturer and workingman must be willing to accept less and give a full day's output in every hour and work. Only by so doing will conditions developed which we mean work, better pay, permanent development, and ability to carry and discharge our national obligations.

Rap's Good Returns

Love and Not Fear

The Bishop of London says that it would be almost comic now to hear a sermon about hell. Which means that the basis of religion is at best interpreted as love and not fear.

Long Exile Ended

Ex-King of Ashanti Deported By British in 1900

Ex-King Prempeh of Ashanti with his family and 1,000 subjects, has been released from a 21-year exile and is back in the Seychelles group of islands in the Indian Ocean. He formerly had 700 wives, twelve of whom he took his wife with him. He is a Christian. He was exiled in 1900, according to a story told by him to an interviewer at Liverpool and sent his 12 wives back. He intends to have only one wife when he gets home. Prempeh wears European clothes and a bowler hat, but he declared that it was not true he wore a top hat when he went to church. Captured by a British force in 1896, Prempeh was deposed and exiled along with his son, who became a Christian in 1908, according to a story told by him to an interviewer at Liverpool and sent his 12 wives back, but when he arrived on the Anchor liner Olympic at Liverpool he was accompanied, as stated, by a large retinue.

CLAIM MEDICAL PROBLEMS
Dr. Marjorie Jones, research associate of the department of pediatrics at the University of California Medical School, claims the discovery of a cure for rickets. She conducted experiments on dachshund and small animals in a patient's milk. The discovery resulted from finding that acid reduced the rickets.

UNSURPASSED FOR CHILDHOOD ALIMENTS

Mrs. Howard King, R.N. No. 5, Tracy, N.Y., says—“As the number of tooth decay cases among babies' teeth increases, so does the number of children with dental caries. The Baby's Own Tablets are designed for childhood aliments.”

Other mothers agree with Dr. King in this respect. “I am in entire agreement with your method,” writes Mrs. E. C. Miller, of New York City. “I have found the Baby's Own Tablets to fail to regulate the stomach and bowels, thus causing constipation. I have given them to my child with complete success.”

Chlorine have gained control of the market for the past few years. Pedicil coast have large interests in the growing and handling trades, and take an active part in the business life of the Central Command, which includes Bishop Doell suggested a change in the present position, which would profit Chlorine possessing property and would control them to a trade.

With so thorough a preparation at hand as Miller's Worm Powders the mother who allows her children to scratch their backs, to scratch worms off, are always kept away from the head in the heat sign of any of the minor worm infestations. A child subjected to the attacks of worms is often a victim of fits, especially in its growth. It is a merciful act to rid it of these destructive parasites, especially when it can be done without difficulty.

Employment Shows Improvement

LAST YEAR
Last Year

The trend of employment in Canada at the beginning of March was favorable, though not so much as might be expected, in contrast with the downward tendency indicated on the same date of last year. According to reports of the Bureau of Statistics, the number of persons employed in Canada were on their payroll, or $621 more than were on their payroll in February, 1924. Manufacturing was decidedly more active, but employment in other divisions on the whole showed decided, partly seasonal in character.

NOTABLE SPEECH OF BLIND MEMBER

A notable achievement was the unusual speech of Captain Ian Fraser of Captain Ian Fraser, the blind Conservative member from St. Pancras, North. Captain Fraser is chairman of the noted St. Dunstan's Hospital for Blind Soldiers. He presented his speech before the House of Commons in his treasury's agreement on employment to exercise men that was hard to believe he was speaking without notes and that he had never seen any orders.

USE MOVIES FOR CURES

Swedish hospitals for the insane are using moving pictures to treat insane patients. This device is said to be highly effective in curing cases. The same method is being used in tubercular sanatoriums.

YOUTHFUL FARMERS IN ALBERTA

The Late R. N. Willhams Was Well Known in Alberta

R. N. Willhams, well known in this district and reported on the staff of the Edmonton Bulletin 20 years ago, crossed away peacefully at Peace River Crossing after a long illness. Mr. Willhams came to Edmonton from Ottawa 20 years ago. He was a citizen of the Toledo Mercury for some time, and 10 years ago established the Standard at Peace River Crossing. He died at Peace River Crossing, where he had been in the benefit of his health, three weeks ago.

The deceased leaves a widow and a son, Mr. and Mrs. John Willhams, and Miss Jean Willhams, who will reside at Peace River Crossing.

Quote Numerous Cases Of Farmers Returning To Canada From The United States

Additional records of former returning to Canada from the United States, for the reason that the Dominion offers better opportunities for success, are quoted by the department of immigration and colonization. Within the past week the agent of the department at Brandon has reported the following instances:

Arthur Stevenson, an Englishman, with his wife and family, of Ypsilanti, Michigan, farmed nearly 12 years at Lethbridge, Alberta, and two months ago Mr. Stevenson went to the States with the idea that he could make more money there, but he has been disappointed in this respect. He and his family are now satisfied that farming in Canada is the best place to live, and are returning to Lethbridge where they will farm again. Stevenson came to Canada from England 18 years ago.

W. H. McDonald, of Detroit, a native of the United States, farmed in Saskatchewan for seven years. About a year ago he sold out and went back to the States where he has been working in lumber camps. "I am sick of the farms and want to get back to my own," said Mr. McDonald, who is leaving to take up land in Alberta.

F. W. Gorder went to the United States four years ago, first working with his brother in Prince Albert, Sask. He failed to find the alternative opportunities that he expected in the factories where he worked, and made arrangements to return with his wife and two daughters to take up a farm near the same in the Prince Albert district.

Willis Mitchell, a native of Ontario, went to the States seven years ago, and has been working there in his trade, so he is unable to farm. He is joining friends at Grand Prairie, who are doing well, and is making good.

We have also learned, farmed for six years at Lycoming, Alberta. In 1921, he went to Chicago. He has now decided he could do better on the farm and is returning to a former place which he left after his absence has been long going by his brother.

The Canadian Government agent at Great Falls, Montana, reports the two following examples:

George C. Brown, Chetone, Montana, is 51 years of age and Canadian born. Mr. Hodgins moved from Bruce County, Ontario, and homesteaded in Chetone, Alberta, for seven years. On his return he found forty to fifty bushels of wheat to the acre and about eighty bushels of oats. In 1922 he sold out for over $1,000 an acre, which was the value of his quarters when he came out.

The following year he went to Montana, to Teton County, where he homesteaded one quarter section and bought another half section and put in four to five acres in crops every year. "I would have given up Montana if I had not been to Alberta," he said. "I have made it through the dry years and bad crops, but lost everything I had."

He now has 100 acres of land, 100 bushels to the acre, to commence farming there over again as he says he has learned from experience it is hard to heat the opportunities which lie in Western Canada.

In 1902, Mr. John C. Brown, now of Great Falls, Montana, went to Alberta. He took up farming at Rilloo, in the Carlton district. He had good crops every year, but the price of grain fell three times. He bought the land in the climate very healthy, the law of the best, and the schools good. He has seen 62 bushels of No. 1 North for net. He has had a good deal of No. 2 North, but has been able to stabilize it. Mr. Brown sold out in 1918 and went to Great Falls, Montana. He has now decided to return to Canada as he considers it the best farming country at all odds.

Better Production Increases

Production of creamery butter in Saskatchewan during February totalled 612,828 pounds, as compared with 55,511 pounds during the corresponding month in 1921, or 1,066 per cent per cent. The average daily production was 21,000 pounds and the increase over the corresponding period last year would have been greater if there had been 20 days in February this year as there was last.

You never can tell. Even the fellow who is addicted to long-winded stories may be short in his accounts,

Natural Resources Bulletin

Forest Protection Is a Matter of Prime Importance

The natural resources intelligence service of the department of interior at Ottawa says:

"It is common knowledge that protection of forests is a basic factor of wood. Wood is a basic material, comparable only to coal and iron in importance. In Canada forests are second only to coal in value, amounting to five million dollars annually to the wealth of the country. The permanence of these industries, and inevitably to a large extent, the permanency of the country's prosperity is bound up in the permanence of the advances in the forest resources to meet the needs of industry."

In the timber industry, the most important trees today and always have been a large factor. In addition, the ever present risk of fire to the standing timber and to the young growth which is our main dependence for future supplies of timber, as well as providing the regeneration of lumber, the risk is materially reduced.

The average Canadian, if he thinks at all on the subject, thinks of Canada as a country of lumber, but his real resource capable of sustaining industrial development in forest industries indefinitely. He does not realize that the lumber produced is higher in price than that produced by the pulp and paper mills, while timber, also comparatively new, amounts to 26,888 tons. The development of these field products is largely due to the lumber mills of the pulp industry. Alberta's dairy production last year was valued at close to $23,000,000 and is rapidly increasing. British Columbia is producing an attractive market for butter, and Alberta cheese is finding an increasing demand.

Use of the Packer

Little Practical Value In Land Preparation

In his summary of experiments in wheat from 1909 to 1923, the supervisor of the Dominion experimental farm at Brandon, Manitoba, reports results of experiments in packing and points out that they do not show any advantage gained from the use of the packer. In fact, he believes, he adds, to show that similar results can be obtained on practically all the other prairie experimental farms. While it would appear to be proven that the packer is unnecessary as an implement for preparing the soil, it is equally apparent that it does not follow that it is never useful. In special circumstances, where the condition of the land makes adoption of the packer the only practicable method of preparing a field, it may be even probably justified. The Brandon superintendent (Mr. W. C. McMillan) states that the tests conducted by him cover most ordinary cases of land preparation, and that the results of these are of considerable importance in yielding shown from the use of the packer. He also adds that, considering the tremendous investment in such equipment, it is to be hoped that he figures will be available in British Columbia, where the Marquis wheat, J. H. Newman, Dominion cerealist, experimental farms, told the agricultural committee of the House of Commons recently, "the capabilities of the packer in seasons of drought, and to ripen earlier than the Marquis, even in wet weather thereby escaping the ravages of rust and frost, are being evaluated." The Marquis, it is believed, will extend the wheat-growing area miles further north.

Alberta's Newest Crop

Sunflower Crop Amounted To 160,650 Tons Last Year

One of the newest crops, sunflowers, used for oilseed, amounted to 160,650 tons last year, while oilseed corn, also comparatively new, amounted to 26,888 tons. The development of these field products is largely due to the lumber mills of the pulp industry.

Alberta's dairy production last year was valued at close to $23,000,000 and is rapidly increasing. British Columbia is producing an attractive market for butter, and Alberta cheese is finding an increasing demand.

Interest In Forage Crop

Large Amount Of Seed Sold From Special Station Located In Saskatchewan

Interest in forage crop production among the farmers of Saskatchewan is evidently on the increase, judged by the large number of inquiries the station receives from time to time.

The Marquis wheat, which was evaluated at the winter wheat trials at the Provincial Government and the Canadian Pacific Railway during the past month, at Estevan these meetings of farmers in the district visited by the forage crop will result in the sale of seed to the value of $200.

Silos In Manitoba

Red River District Specializing In Dairy

There are 1,482 silos in Manitoba, according to the annual report of the provincial department of agriculture, and the Red River district is the most popular department in agriculture. This is divided as follows: Grain crops, $106,695,114; oilseed and lower, $5,129,455; oilseed produce, including barley, wood, $267,400; hay, $1,000,000; and a food silo. There were 60,152 tons of feeding corn in the province last year and 6,622 tons of sunflowers.

Are Poorly Paid

London's sandwichmen, those dozen skin-blighting speculators who have the curse of every busy street, are still satisfied with their work and income, and are not better off.

Their earnings seem pitifully small, for most of them get only 50 cents a day for ten hours of parades, though all the time is not spent in actual business.

The lumber trade has never been so bad.

If the timber price at Ifield, near London, is to be believed, the lumbermen will not earn more than 50 cents a day.

They are paid only 50 cents a day.

Sheik of Mena Village Host to Canadians

Photographed above are Nasr Emam Khatib, who recently succeeded his father as sheik of Mena Village, and his son, Dr. Naser, a Canadian newspaper man accompanying the Canadian Pacific S.S. "Empress of Canada" on its recent trip. The sketch following the interesting dispatch covering the caravan trip of the sheik and his son, and the death of their host, Emam Khatib, right.

"On our left came by river steamer, debarking sixteen camels, and so we were soon whence we journeyed by camel, boy and sand-cart through Old Menah, where we saw the pyramids after sixteen miles out on the Lybian desert. Then a Bedouin camp was reached, and here we listened to Bedouin music and watched Bedouin dancing far into the night. We did not reach camp until 8 o'clock, the last two hours' riding having been in the dark moon. At midnight the moon was at eclipse. Our host, Emam Khatib, had a large number of sheep and probably the most woolly of the Bedouin sheiks of Egypt, had been lost in the desert and never returned with the rest of us. At one we went to his village, Mena, at the base of the pyramids, and before starting with us to Cairo the next morning.

He was conversing with his young daughter when he was suddenly struck at the heart and died instantaneously. His son Nasr, 24, popular and strong, who had just come in from Cairo to the camp, succeeded as sheik of the Mena Village, which is about 100 miles from Cairo. Guests were permitted to finish their breakfast before the funeral service. We returned a tumble home, saddened and grieving after such a sad occurrence. More than 10,000 attended his funeral in the quaint little village of the pyramids. The sheik's wife and some of our passengers who had grown to respect and admire Emam Khatib, were present. She spoke in several languages and in a gentle, well-modulated voice that must have been very touching to all who heard her. Sheek—mayor, police justice of the newly-created town, etc., etc.—had died suddenly and well.
